

We love XM radio and use it every day both at home and on the road. If local broadcasting was doing it's job we wouldn't need satellite radio--it has provided us with a huge range of radio alternatives to local stations that provide only what THEY think we should hear.

Please do not limit satellite radios ability to offer us local weather and other information. You would not be acting in the best interests of customers of satellite radio, or customers of any radio medium by limiting our choice of programming.
